

Exam “Sykes-sess” at SP&P!

Stephen Penny & Partners (SP&P) are celebrating after Accounts Trainee David Sykes recently passed his final ACCA examinations with flying colours! David has been studying towards the ACCA for the past three years and following the success of his June examinations will soon complete his training and become a qualified accountant. He is now hoping to further his knowledge by continuing with his studies to become a Chartered Tax Advisor. SP&P have been based in Bournemouth for the last thirty years offering comprehensive accountancy, tax and business advice services to the local business community and has been an ACCA training office for over 10 years.

Stephen Penny, Senior Partner said “We are extremely proud of our training program within the firm, which this year I am delighted has culminated in David passing his finals and gaining his ACCA membership status which will be finalised over the next few months. David has worked here since both during a placement year of his degree and since he graduated University and I consider him to be an asset to the practice. His knowledge and professional manner is of great benefit to both clients and the firm.”

David Sykes, accounts assistant, said “I am thrilled to have passed my final exams and now look forward to advising clients on their affairs in the future. The support from Stephen, my colleagues and family has contributed to my achievements this year.”
